SPONSORSHIP FORM

Want to give back to your community? LA Heat girls' baseball is looking for sponsors.

LA Heat is a 501c3 nonprofit organization for girls' baseball based in Los Angeles. We hold free baseball skills clinics run by volunteer coaches, where players can meet and train with other female athletes. We also organize teams to compete in all-girl baseball tournaments. LA Heat is not a travel team or a league, our goal is to keep girls engaged in baseball, where the future for them is bright.

To become a sponsor, please fill out the information below and select the sponsorship level. Each sponsorship is allocated towards player scholarships, equipment, skills clinics, and costs of running our non-profit organization. You may donate via Venmo, PayPal or Check.

Venmo and Paypal: <https://laheat.org/donate>

Please make check payable to: LA Heat Baseball Inc.

"The profound cross generational impact youth sport participation has had on women's leadership development is the latest proof point that the skills, traits and experiences girls learn through the transformative power of sport have the ability to build a vibrant leadership pipeline that benefits society at large." Sharrow, E., Staurowsky, E., & Davis, B. (2024). Play to Lead: The Generational Impact of Sports on Women's Leadership. Women's Sports Foundation.

The Women's Pro Baseball League (WPBL) has officially named its first four cities - Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York and Boston - marking a historic step in bringing professional women's baseball to the national stage, launching May 2026.
